

STREAMING SHABBAT SERVICES:

Rav Jeremy and a committee will be working on setting up virtual Shabbat connections for our congregation. (If you have relevant expertise, please let us know.) We're not sure when we will have that up. Please watch for details. In the meantime, several of our fellow Reconstructionist congregations are already set up for streaming. While we work on setting up our own Shabbat virtual connections, you can do some virtual shul shopping. We might even "learn some new tricks" through this opportunity to go on easy field trips. Note that some of these links may be specific for this Shabbat. If you liked the service and want to "go back", see the congregation's home page next week.)

For some of these synagogues, you may want to follow along in a Reconstructionist Kol Haneshamah Shabbat Vehagim Siddur (Prayerbook). If you who do not have a printed copy of Kol Haneshamah, you can click here to access a PDF file of the Shabbat Vehagim prayerbook. (Note: This is emergency free access because of the virus. Please be sensitive to the movement's need to have income from these books when normal times return.)
